THE ADVERTISER'S SEMI-WEEKLY

Liberty Loan Cycle

THROUGH the sale of Liberty Loan bonds the United States is borrowing large sums of money from its citizens, its business men, farmers, bankers, wage earners, merchants, manufacturers. The government collects this money and disburses it in two ways. Part it expends itself and part it loans our allies. The United States and these other governments spend it for American products and American labor and it goes back directly into the hands of the people, the American business man, farmer, banker, wage earner, merchant and manufacturer.

This is the cycle. John Smith the farmer and Thomas Brown the wage earner each has purchased a Liberty Loan bond paying down the initial payment of two per cent. On June 28 they made the eighteen per cent payment, depositing the amount in their banks and sending checks to the Federal Reserve Bank of their district. The Federal Reserve Bank collects the check and re-deposits the money with the local banks. Later the treasury department draws against it and the money is again lodged with the Federal Reserve Bank. It is almost immediately withdrawn from the Federal Reserve Bank either by the United States or by some foreign government engaged in war with Germany to which the United States has advanced money and is paid out for American products or labor. Some of it is spent for farm products and raw material, and some of it for manufactured products, thus going back into the hands of American citizens.

Therefore the money paid in by the above mentioned John Smith and Thomas Brown on June 28 in part payment of their Liberty Loan Bonds may have got back into their hands in time to make up part of their payments made July 30.

Worth Investigating

THE war department has accepted Cuba's invitation to use that island as a winter training camp for a portion of the National Army. If Uncle Sam is looking for pleasant places within to train his boys, why should Hawaii's claim be overlooked? There probably is not room on the Leilehua plains for as many as a division, but there is plenty of available ground on the Island of Hawaii for a great camp, without the necessity of doing more than pipe in a water supply. No expensive barracks are required.

In the matter of supplies, it may be pointed out that the mainland need not be drawn upon to any great extent. Australia has food for export and the only reason it is not being drawn upon to a greater extent by Europe is because of the long voyage involved. If fifty or a hundred thousand men could be sent to Hawaii for training, they could be fed from Australia and release the food they would otherwise consume on the mainland for shipment to Europe. It is not so great a trip from here to Sydney and there are probably plenty of Japanese ships available for the trade.

It is suggested in some of the mainland publications that Uncle Sam may send an army to the east front in Europe as well as to the west front, and if so, the men trained in Hawaii would be already well on their way toward Vladivostok.

Treasonable Booze

THE indications are that Honolulu is due for a shaking down in the matter of the illegal sale of booze to soldiers, such as has so thoroughly disgraced the city during the past two or three weeks. The saloons have not been obeying the spirit of the law, whatever observance they have been giving to the letter, and those few which have are to suffer along with the guilty majority, perhaps to be wiped out of existence altogether.

There is documentary evidence to show that from one saloon last week one man, a "bum," purchased more than forty flasks of whiskey during one day. That such could be possible without the saloon men knowing that this booze was for illegal sale is inconceivable. This is one case of many known to the authorities, proof positive that the desire of the army heads that their men be kept sober is being flouted.

Today in Honolulu the booze business is almost treasonable. It is certainly unpatriotic. The whole business ought to be wiped out without any further grace, pending which it must be disciplined. And we believe it will be.

One thing is most necessary in the proper handling of the efficiency thieves who are making a business of furnishing intoxicants to soldiers: that is a higher conception of duty on the part of the average good citizen serving on trial juries. It is notorious that the blind piggers are taking all their cases to the circuit court, in the knowledge that the average jury will not convict, whatever the evidence.

Today, illicit dealings in intoxicants is not merely a crime against the statute framed to protect the licensed dealer, it is a crime against the flag, an attempt to impair the fighting strength of the nation. It is something which means life and death to the soldiers and it is a mighty poor specimen of citizen who will today side with the booze dealer, illicit or licensed.

The mainland Japanese are after Taft and Hughes, to retain them as counsels for the applicant in the Ozawa naturalization case. Now, if they can only get Teddy on the sidelines to root, they will have just the trio necessary.

Uncalled-for Demands

THE Japanese laborers on Hawaiian plantations are today being paid a bigger wage, all things considered, than any other class of agricultural workers in any part of the world. On seven typical plantations, representative of conditions on Oahu, Maui and Hawaii, from the period of the adoption of the bonus last year—for seven months—the average daily earnings of the laborers, day and contract, was $1.74, added to which the laborers received free houses, free fuel, free water and free medical attendance, sufficient to bring the average pay for each day worked to more than two dollars.

This is decidedly higher than the average earnings of farm laborers on the mainland, the year around; it is much higher than plantation labor receives in Cuba, Porto Rico, the Fiji or any other cane sugar producing country. It is a wage scale that is drawing the labor from the city back to the plantations and it has been reflected throughout the city in the decided increase of the past year in the wages of yard boys and house servants.

There is absolutely no complaint, so far as can be learned, from the plantation laborers, especially at this time, when the wage plus the bonus for this year will be higher than for last year, when it averaged more than two dollars, including the incidentals.

Yet there has arisen an agitation in Honolulu, led by the Japanese press, for increased pay because of the war, when the increase since the beginning of the war has been seventy-five per cent already. Taking part in this agitation are the Japanese bankers, the Japanese storekeepers, the Japanese hotel keepers and the Japanese editors. It is an uncalled-for agitation, the launching of a movement to create dissatisfaction amongst satisfied workers, the beginning of a campaign which bodes no good to the community. It appears to be a purely artificial creation, this demand for more pay for men and women who are not asking for more, and raised at a time when the sugar producers are facing an uncertain future, the one certainty of which is that there are to be excess and super-taxes and war demands that were not considered when the bonus rate was voluntarily granted.

The situation calls for some plain speaking to those who have undertaken to create trouble where none exists and who are speaking for the plantation laborers without any authority that can be traced. If the Japanese business community of Honolulu is going to undertake the disrupting of the amicable relations that now exist between employers and employed in our main industry, the sooner the facts are brought to light the better. Certainly this of all times is not the time to start an unnecessary labor war.

Snubbing Patriotism

IF the latest order sent out to naval district commanders by Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, does not cost the Honorable Josephus his cabinet position and give this nation a MAN in his place, then we have sorely misjudged the temper of the American people.

The secretary of the navy, because he has had a personal difference with individual officials of the Navy League, has carried his pique so far as to place representatives of this patriotic and unselfish organization on a par with German spies and pro-German traitors and has absolutely closed all naval reservations to them. Under no circumstances is a representative of the Navy League to be allowed to set foot within a naval station or a naval reservation!

The Navy League and its women's branch have been working steadily, persistently and unselfishly for years to help build up and adequately maintain the Navy by creating a national understanding of the national need of a Navy and the important part a strong, efficient navy can play in the preservation of peace and the carrying on of a necessary war. Now comes the South Carolina "statesman," because his little feelings are torn, and refuses the further assistance of a great, national organization, and flings back into the faces of thousands of earnest women their offers of Christmas gifts to the sailors.

Could pettiness go further? Could there be any better illustration of the utter unwisdom of Josephus Daniels as the head of one of the great fighting branches of the Nation in this time of war?

Certainly President Wilson will not tolerate this display of littleness on the part of his secretary of the navy. Either Daniels will swallow his personal feelings and rescind his orders, or President Wilson will dump him bodily and there will be no more of Josephus.

When the latter happens, as it must soon, over this or some other inevitable expression of petty brain, there will be rejoicing in every naval yard and station and aboard every naval vessel which flies the Stars and Stripes. There is not an officer of the Navy who does not despise Daniels from his greasy topknot to his clumsy feet and not a navy man who does not deplore the harm to American prestige this man has been able to accomplish, but while Josephus reigns, not a hint of this feeling can be publicly expressed. The man who would attempt to snub the Navy League would not hesitate a second to degrade and break any officer who dared disagree with him on anything.

BREVITIES

Mrs. Helen Carter of San Francisco died early Tuesday morning in the Beretania Sanitarium.

United States Attorney S. C. Huber has changed his residence from 228 Beach Walk to 2842 Nuuanu Avenue.

Hon. Ralph P. Quarles, associate justice of the territorial supreme court, left in the Matsonia yesterday morning for the mainland, where he will spend a vacation of two months. Associate Justice Coke is already in the mainland. Chief Justice Robertson is the only member of the supreme court now in Honolulu.

Mr. and Mrs. Frazee of Nuuanu Valley were passengers in the Matsonia for San Francisco yesterday and will spend at least two months in the mainland. Mrs. Frazee hopes that the trip and rest will improve her health, which has been rather poor for some time past. Mr. Frazee is city electrician and is in charge of the government lighting system in Nuuanu Valley.

Max Eckart and Miss Sylvana Anjo were married by Rev. Samuel K. Kamakapihi, assistant pastor of Kaunakapihi Church, Pahala, last Monday. The witnesses were Manuel Pereira and Edward K. Panawea. Mr. and Mrs. Eckart left in the Claudine on Monday evening for Paia, where they will make their home.

ACCUSE FILIPINOS OF BRUTAL CRIME

Police Say They Are Guilty of Cruelly Shooting and Stabbing Man in Presence of Wife

A crime, which for cold-blooded brutality, has no equal in local police annals, was committed just across the Pali late on Tuesday night, the victim being Hayashihara, a well-known Japanese storekeeper.

Hayashihara, with his family, consisting of a wife and seven children, conducted a store at the Libby, McNeill & Libby camp, between the Pali and Kaneohe.

Shortly before eleven o'clock, when Hayashihara was locking the door of his store, a Filipino forced his way in and said that he wanted to buy soda water. While the Filipino was being served, four other Filipinos entered the store and at the point of revolvers and flourishing knives, forced the Japanese to open his safe, in which were deposited money and valuables, the property of Filipinos residing at a nearby camp.

After taking about $200 from the safe, as well as considerable jewelry, including five watches, the Filipinos forced Hayashihara and his wife out of their house and into a pineapple field about a quarter of a mile distant.

There the woman's hands and feet were tied and the man's hands bound behind his back. When this had been done Hayashihara was stabbed and shot to death, in the presence of his wife.

A bloodstained knife was found near the scene of the murder and the handle was discovered near the road. Two jumpers, a shirt and a revolver were also found.

The murdered man was shot twice and stabbed three times.

Shortly after the flight of the murderers Mrs. Hayashihara managed to break her bonds and ran for help.

The murdered man was forty-two years of age and is said by those who have done business with him to have been a man from the feet up. Until he opened the store which he recently occupied, about eighteen months ago, he conducted a store at Hanalei.

Late last night four arrests of suspects were made, the men being all Filipinos, being booked for investigation.

LAWYER'S RUNNER

SHOOTS HIMSELF

Aim Is Poor and Bullet Misses Vital Spot

Edward B. Mullaney, until recently employed as runner by Leon Straus, a lawyer, attempted to commit suicide about half-past twelve o'clock yesterday afternoon, by shooting himself near the corner of Merchant and Nuuanu Streets.

Mullaney is said to have left a local saloon and to have proceeded up Nuuanu Street. Then he turned back, and when near the Waikiki corner of Nuuanu and Merchant Streets, drew a thirty-eight caliber Colt revolver and pointed it at his head.

The would-be suicide was so much under the influence of liquor that his hand wobbled and when he pulled the trigger the bullet grazed his left shoulder. He fell to the ground and was carried to the emergency hospital.

Mullaney has for a long time past been a heavy drinker but three weeks ago swore off. On Tuesday night he fell off the wagon with a bump and shortly before midnight was reported to be in an incapable condition.

Mullaney came to Honolulu with the first body of Filipino immigrants, in the capacity of interpreter. He was accompanied by his wife, a Filipino woman, whom he met while serving in the Islands in the United States army, and whom he married in Manila. The Mullaney family have five children, including a boy of twelve.

Mead Heads Labor Committee of Food Commission

Royal D. Mead has accepted the appointment of the food commission to head a committee to handle labor questions as they arise in connection with the work of the commission. Mead has power to appoint other members, and will do so as need arises for such a committee.

In a letter to the food commission Mr. Mead states that in regard to a report made by A. H. Case of Kauai that a large acreage of new land will be available for the 1918 rice crop, it is his opinion that it would be a difficult question to find the labor. Chinese laborers are not to be had, and even if other Orientals could be found, they would hardly enter into rice cultivation except under conditions which it would be almost impossible to meet.

W. W. G. Muir, county agent for Hawaii, reports to the food commission that not much is being done in Hawaii in the way of supplying local wants. A number are growing all they need for themselves, but they are not producing surplus crops for those who have none. Muir states that it is hard to interest small planters in crops which will not give them as high returns as sugar cane. The growing of vegetables is not as profitable to them as cultivating sugar cane for the plantation mills.

MORE FOR SUGAR LESS FOR CASH, SAY JAPANESE

Nipponese Press Asserts Planters Get More Money But Laborers Get No Increase

REARRANGED SYSTEM TO MEET HIGHER COST

Association For Higher Wages Will Endeavor To Bring About Change

Royal D. Mead, director of the bureau of labor and statistics of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association was right in his figures but his argument did not cover the case, according to the contention of that portion of the Japanese press which yesterday commented editorially on the statement from that official.

This statement has apparently not shaken the determination of the press to push through the campaign for higher wages which has been commenced through the Association for Higher Wages organized Monday night by the leading business men of the Japanese community.

The chief fault picked in Mr. Mead's argument is not in anything that he said, but in what the Japanese press alleges he left unsaid. The line of campaign which the Japanese will take on behalf of the laborers was rather clearly indicated in the editorials and they will rely chiefly upon the argument that the planters are getting more for their sugar but that the laborers are getting less for their money.

In other words, the Nippon Jiji argues, the planters should help the laborers meet the high cost of living by a rearrangement of the bonus system and higher wages. With the exception of the Hawaii Shimpo, all the Japanese papers argue more or less along the same lines. The Shimpo has not yet commented on the letter editorially.

In none of the papers was much space given to editorial comment.

CALL EXTENDED TO REV. A. W. PALMER

Central Union Church Asks Plymouth Church Pastor, Oakland, To Fill Pulpit

Rev. Albert W. Palmer will likely be the next minister of Central Union Church, for the church body at a meeting yesterday decided to extend a call to Mr. Palmer to fill its pulpit. The call is an enthusiastic one and there is every reason to believe that Mr. Palmer will accept it.

The pulpit of Central Union has had no regular occupant since Rev. Dr. Dorcas Scudder resigned as minister, to take up church work in Japan, where he had spent many years previously. Then, too, Rev. A. A. Ebersole, the associate minister, had resigned previously to that to do church work among the allied armies in Europe.

Rev. Mr. Palmer who is pastor of the Plymouth Church of Oakland, California, spent several weeks in Honolulu and the Islands recently and during his stay here occupied the pulpit of Central Union on several occasions. He also addressed the Men's League of Central Union Church at an informal gathering of the members on August 6. Mr. Palmer returned to the mainland in the Matsonia on August 13. During his address to the Men's League Mr. Palmer said that during the next six months he would be in charge of relief and social work of the Y. M. C. A., at the military training camp at Camp Fremont, Palo Alto, California, where he would have a corps of thirty assistants. It is expected that at Camp Fremont there will be thirty thousand men under arms.

Should he accept the Central Union call, which the church authorities fully believe and hope he will, Rev. Mr. Palmer will not take charge until after the close of his Camp Fremont engagement, which will conclude about the end of January, next.

Mr. Palmer has had a varied experience in church, social, community and settlement work. He was formerly assistant to Rev. Dr. J. H. Williams of the Riverside Church, California. Mr. Williams, who is the father of Dr. Robert Day Williams, principal of the Mid-Pacific Institute, Manoa Valley, has been filling the Central Union Church pulpit for some months past.
